

STAYING TRUE TO YOU AS YOUR FUTURE SYSTEMS PROVIDER

Our sector is undergoing rapid change at the present time, which is why we – Vossloh-Schwabe – intend to position ourselves even more clearly.

Various company takeovers in the luminaire and the components segments as well as the fast pace of LED product development make stability and a long-term orientation key.

We at Vossloh-Schwabe continue to see our core competence in supporting you – our loyal business partners – with the right lighting components and system solutions.

The copious positive customer feedback we received for our product range developments at the 2018 Light+Building was very welcome. We feel it bodes well for us remaining relevant as a systems provider within the systems and product landscape thanks to your targeted input.

Currently, Vossloh-Schwabe is already the only supplier capable of offering development and production of drivers, modules, optics, accessories and even lighting control solutions for indoor and outdoor use from a single source.

On-point product creation, patent stability and systems benefits all go to strengthen your position on the market and with that facilitate sustainable business success.

Having pursued this strategy for almost 100 years, Vossloh-Schwabe is set to continue supporting you in time-honoured manner and providing solutions for your luminaires well into the future.
